the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are aged 65 and over has increased from 10.5 million to 12.5 million, and the number of people aged 75 and over has increased from 4.5 million to 6.5 million (Office of National Statistics 1999).

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the needs of older people in the community. The Department of Health (1999) has published a strategy for older people, which sets out the government's commitment to improve the lives of older people. The strategy is based on the following principles:

- Older people should be able to live independently and actively in the community.
- Older people should be able to access the services and facilities they need.
- Older people should be able to participate in the decisions that affect their lives.
- Older people should be able to live in a safe and secure environment.

The strategy also sets out a number of key objectives, including:

- To improve the health and well-being of older people.
- To improve the housing and living conditions of older people.
- To improve the transport and travel facilities for older people.
- To improve the social and cultural life of older people.

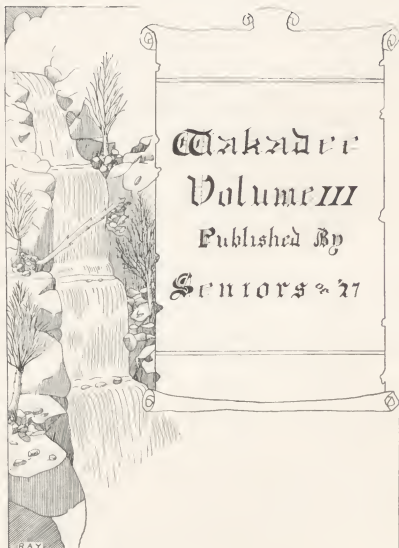

The strategy is a key document in the development of policy for older people in the UK. It provides a framework for the development of services and facilities for older people, and sets out the government's commitment to improve the lives of older people.

Foreword

The Senior Class of 1927 presents this Wakadee number to you with the hope that the efforts of months may not be entirely unappreciated. We realize at the beginning our unfitness for the work, but such as we have we give to you.

It has not been our intention to add materially to the literary wealth of the world, but to portray in an interesting manner the actual life of Wakarusa High School. Neither have we deliberately determined to make ridicule of any one, but if you find yourself mirrored within these pages, simply smile, as we have smiled, and profit by your vision.

So we kindly ask you to take a gentle walk with us through the following pages.

Edna Miller, '27.

Dedicatory

We, the Senior Class of '27, dedicate the third edition of the Wakadec to Mr. Glade Rohrer, who has faithfully helped us as our sponsor in putting out this annual; and, to our parents, who have sacrificed their time and pleasure for our sakes, that we may prepare ourselves for the many obstacles that will come before us as future citizens and leaders of the community.

—Miriam Eby.

THE WAKARUSA COMMUNITY SCHOOLS

Since the school work has been transferred to the new Community building, there has been an enlargement of the curriculum in both the high school and grades.

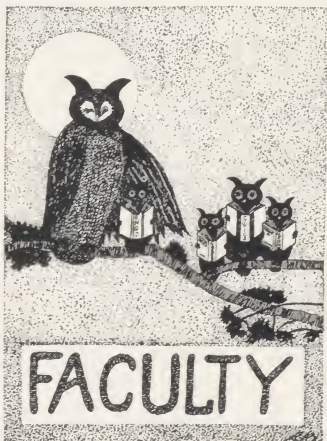

The high school has again offered Manual Training, which was discontinued on account of lack of room during the last three years in the old building. There are now nearly fifty students enjoying the course in Manual Arts.

A commercial course has been added, offering courses in bookkeeping, typewriting and shorthand. There are nearly thirty students registered in the department. Several students of last year's class are now holding responsible positions. Their fine success has been a credit to the department.

The Orchestra has been revived. Considering the number of enthusiastic beginners, the school can look forward to a fine Orchestra in the future.

The students of the grades have a twenty minute period in music instruction each day. They are taught the rudiments of music appreciation by a special instructor. It is hoped that every student who goes through the eight grades in the Community Schools will be able to both read and appreciate music. With this knowledge and practice in singing the students who are unable to sing will be able to use their talents on an instrument.

There are over three hundred and seventy students in both the high school and grades. Six school busses are employed by the township to carry the pupils who live in the country. Warm lunches are served in the Domestic Science rooms at noon at nearly cost prices, by an experienced lady of the town.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

Our entering the "Old W. H. S." in the fall of '23 was probably no different from that of any other class, except that we were superior in number, there being fifty-nine of us. Following the example of former classes we elected the following officers: President, Harold Ritter; Secretary, Virginia Green; Treasurer, Beulah Werner; Sponsor, Mr. Holdeman.

The class colors, black and gold were chosen later, and a pennant and arm bands were purchased to show our loyalty. A weiner roast was held at the school house on September seventeenth to start the year right.

Finally we found ourselves Sophomores, however greatly feeling our decrease in number which was due to the opening of Madison, but being optimistic we were satisfied with those who joined us from other schools and elected the following officers: President, Beulah Werner; Secretary and Treasurer, Harry Hostettler; Sponsor, Mr. Holdeman. A party was held at Leatherman's Grove early in the fall.

As Juniors those who remained elected the following officers: President, Merl Schwalm; Secretary and Treasurer, Carl Weldy; Mr. Rohrer, Sponsor.

The old pennant having served its purpose, we purchased a new one. There was another party as usual and as a new adventure the class put on the play "Getting Acquainted With Madge," which proved to be a success.

On September sixth, the next year seventeen came back to finish their High School work. Maurice Doering was elected president; Virginia Green, secretary and treasurer; Mr. Rohrer, sponsor. As Seniors we put on the play "The End of the Lane." This was also a great success.

So we came through the path of:

Green Little Freshmen,
Silly Sophomores,
Jolly, Jolly Juniors,
Grand Old Seniors.

CLASS POEM

Graduation days have come,
And school will soon be o'er,
When we the present Senior Class
Must pass out through the door.

And with the treasures we have gained
In fast departed years
We leave the path we've traveled o'er
And go despite the tears.

All through the years now past and gone
We've striven to rise and our tasks we've done;
But our work is incomplete,
For our tasks have just begun.

For four long years we've journeyed 'long
The rough and rugged way;
And now to think that we must go
Makes this our one sad day.

And so we say farewell to all,
To the faculty so true,
And to our friends and classmates dear;
We now must say, "Farewell to you."

Hazel V. Blocher.

SENIOR PARTY

The Seniors were entertained by Ruth Kent at her home on September 17th, 1926. Watermelons, ice cream and cake were served. All who were present reported a jolly time and one not to be forgotten soon.

Kathryn Bowers, '27.

HARD TIME PARTY

The Seniors entertained the Juniors at a Hard Time party at the school house on Friday evening, April the eighth. Every one came in their old attire and a good time was reported by all. Ice cream and pop was served.

Kathryn Bowers, '27.

CLASS SONG

BLACK AND GOLD

Black and Gold, we sing our song to you,
We'll always love our colors clear;
Black and Gold, we always will be true
To you and Wakarusa High School dear.
Black and Gold, we say farewell to you,
Our hearts you will ever hold;
We're leaving now our own dear school,
Fare thee well, dear Black and Gold.

Black and Gold, we sing our song to you,
We've been with you for four long years;
Black and Gold, we always will be true,
And mingled with our laughter you'll find tears.
Classmates and friends, we say farewell to you,
Fond mem-o-ries of you we'll hold;
So now farewell, Wakarusa Hi
Fare thee well, dear Black and Gold.

—Hazel Blocher, '27.

CLASS PROPHECY

One day as I was walking down a street in Paris, France, I chanced to see a sign on which I read, "All ailments treated,—if not cured, no charges," Dr. Norman Fish.

I walked into the office and by chance saw his wife, formerly known as Ruth Kent, talking to the office girl, Virginia Green.

I stopped in great astonishment and said, "Virginia, how does it happen you and Maurice were never married?"

Virginia answered "Oh, Maurice wanted a wife that would go with him wherever he wanted to go. I would not do that so he married Edna Miller." They are now living in London, England. Maurice owns a large moving picture house.

As I came out of the office and had gone a couple of blocks I saw another face that looked rather familiar. I soon recognized her as Miriam Eby.

I spoke to her and found that she was still unmarried. I soon found out that she was an actress in one of the Paris theatres.

I asked her how it happened that she stayed single.

Miriam answered, "Men are so changeable now days, so I thought it best to stay single."

I went down the street a little farther and found my companion, Hazel Blocher, who was sailing with me for America from a visit in Paris.

We made plans to start home as soon as possible and took the next steamer for America.

On our way home we learned that Jess Wise was captain of the steamer. We often spoke of old times but he did not remember very many of his schoolmates that we talked about.

When we landed in New York we took train for Wakarusa, Indiana, where we were planning to visit some old friends.

We recognized the conductor as Herbert Copenhaver. We had not heard of him for many years.

When we came to Wakarusa, we walked into the large depot and picked up the Wakarusa Daily Newspaper. Our eyes rested upon two old and familiar names, Clark Farber and Carl Weldy, as editors of the newspaper.

We started out to find the School Building. As we went down the street we saw painted on a window, Brown's Drug Store, Proprietor, Abner Brown.

As we went on we came to an Art Studio, owned by Raymond Yoder, who had made a great success at art.

We next found ourselves in front of a large building which was the School building.

As we stepped inside we saw the professor, whom we recognized as Russell Sloat.

He then showed us to a large white Domestic Science Room, where we met Kathryn Bowers as the instructor. She was very cross but was quite well liked and could teach the children many new things.

The professor then invited us to his home for dinner where we met his wife, formerly known as Beulah Werner. —Amanda Brenneman, '27.

THE DISSATISFIED PAIR

At last Will got rid of the prattling salesman at his office and started for home. He was well-built, strong and good-looking young man, and walked with an air of importance. He was a willing worker and had a bright prospect for a financial success in the future.

As he walked into the kitchen where his wife, a young and beautiful, but quick-tempered lady was getting supper, he asked briskly, "How soon will you have supper ready?"

"In about an hour," she answered.

"An hour," he exclaimed with disgust, "It makes no difference how late I get home it's always, 'In about an hour,' can't you have supper ready by the time I get home sometimes?"

"You mind your own business, you're not so good as you pretend to be either. If you want to know it I had other work to do," she retorted.

"You could have let it go and got supper first couldn't you?" he returned slowly.

"Do you think for a minute I would leave my work and get supper for a grouch like you?" she disputed.

"I guess I'm not the only grouch around here," he said, "if you think you have so much to do, just take my place in the office and I'll take your place at home one day and you'll have enough."

"Do you think I would do such a silly thing? I should say not; Mrs. White don't have to listen to a growling husband. I envy her. Oh! if I only had one like him," she complained.

"Yes, but she gets meals on time," he retorted. "If you think I'm not good enough, you just go and hunt another. I'm getting tired of your excuses."

"Alright, I'll go and do it right away, too. You can get your own supper. I'm going right to mother and tell her how you use me," she said, while gathering up those of her belongings which she could carry handily. Will stood motionless in the center of the room watching her.

"I'll never talk to you again or even look at you," said Janette angrily as she went for the door.

"All right then don't ever show yourself around me again," thundered Will. "The sight of you makes me sick."

As she slammed the door behind her Will stood watching it as though it was the fault of this quarrel. After a few moments he went to the kitchen, took the cooking food off the stove and threw it in the garbage can. Then he prepared a little lunch which he ate greedily.

After this repast he sat down to think what he would do next. Suddenly a bright idea struck his mind. Acting with the thought he went to a store which bore a sign in front, "Costumes for Sale." He bought a splendid costume in which no one would know him, went home and changed clothes, and then went to get a street-car to the Masquerade Ball, for that, he thought, would ease his mind and make him feel better.

Meanwhile Janette went home and poured out her tale to her mother. Suddenly she thought of the Masquerade Ball which was to be held that night. She told her folks she thought she would go there and get acquainted with another young man. Her mother with a sudden thought remembered that she had a beautiful costume, and she told Janette to wear that. At last, being ready, she started for the street-car which would take her to the Masquerade Ball. The special car for the Ball was just ready to start when she arrived. Hurriedly she found a vacant seat beside a young man with a lovely costume. Neither had masks on their faces, but he had a nice mustache and also had black stripes painted on an angle across his face. She had her hair combed like a little girl and had her face beautifully decorated with powder, rouge, lip-stick, and eye-brow pencil.

"Hello, Miss, you look sweet enough to be the daughter of the King of France," said Will, wishing to make her acquaintance, for Will it was, although she did not know it.

"Hello, and I think you look equally charming," said Janette, who thought she was doing good for having left her husband only two hours earlier.

"Have you an engagement with anyone at the Ball?" ventured Will.

"No," returned Janette pleasantly.

"Good, I guess you will be with me then, won't you?" asked he.

"Sure," she replied sweetly.

They soon came to the Ballroom and he assisted her from the car after which they walked inside arm in arm.

"It is a pleasure to dance with you," he said after he had had the first dance with her.

"And you dance so beautifully," she returned, smiling.

They had a very pleasant time together through it all, and when time came to go home he asked if he could assist her to her home.

"Yes," she said, delighted at her success.

He ordered a taxi which took them to her home. They stood in the moonlight where they had just gotten out of the cab.

"Did you have a good time this evening?" asked Will.

"Oh, I know I shouldn't have had such a good time with anyone else," she replied.

"I'll come and see you again soon," he stated, "but what is your name?"

"Janette, and what is yours?" she asked before he had time to exclaim his surprise, which he quickly suppressed.

"Will," he answered, "and what would your last name be?"

"Thomas," she said without stopping to think, being somewhat dazed by hearing the name of Will.

"So is mine," then recognizing her, he exclaimed, "My dear Janette!"

"Will!" she gasped, frantically, as she threw herself into his outstretched arms.

Thirty minutes later they were in their own home.

"We'll not quarrel any more, will we?" he asked, ashamed of his acts of that evening.

"No," she said lovingly.

THE BOY WHO LOST AN OPPORTUNITY TO WIN THE BASKET BALL GAME

It was about the third game of the season and the students were all looking forward to beating a rival school. There was a large "pep" meeting at noon which filled everyone with enthusiasm and made them want to see the game more than ever. After school had taken up, the coach gave a short talk in which he stated that the team had a good chance to win the coming game if they would work together.

John was a Senior and the best player on the team, and had been high-point-man in the two preceeding games of the season.

In the dressing room before the game the coach told the boys how he wanted them to play and that they should pass the ball and not shoot unless they had a good chance for a basket.

The game started and everything went fine for a while, until the rival team got the lead and the home team was unable to stop them until they were several points ahead.

The second half started and both teams scored at intervals, but the opposing team got the lead and was two baskets ahead with two minutes to go. John got the ball and began shooting from almost any distance from the basket. He made a few points but the opposite forward on his team was two points ahead of him and the opposing team was one point ahead, with one-half minute to go.

The ball started at center and the opposing team got possession of the ball and took a shot, but missed, and the home team then started the ball towards their basket. John got the ball and dribbled to the center of the floor. The opposite forward was down underneath the basket without a guard around him but instead of passing the ball to him, John took a shot from center. It hit the backboard and bounced to one side just as the gun cracked for the game to end.

JUNIOR CLASS HISTORY

In the fall of the year 1924, twenty-seven timid youngsters entered Wakarusa High School. Most of these were from the country, and so there was little courage among them. But it happened that one day courage took hold of a small group and they called a class meeting. The following officers were elected: President, Harley Stump; Vice-president, Gerald Hunsberger; Secretary, Pearl Hahn; Treasurer, Florence Shank; and Sponsor, Miss Litweiler. We chose Green and White as our colors. The upper classmen agreed that the colors suited us.

Now that we were organized, the worst was over. We had several parties during this year, and we never will forget what good times we had as "freshies" attending parties.

The next year only twenty-three of our courageous classmen returned to be Sophomores. Later on, one from Goshen thought he would like Waka High better than Goshen High, so he joined our ranks. We chose Pearl Hahn as President; Florence Shank as Vice-president; Harley Stump as Secretary and Treasurer; and Mr. Gerber as Sponsor.

During this year we purchased a pennant, which now adorns the east wall of the gymnasium. Some of our sister students do agree that it is the prettiest pennant in the gym. We also got arm bands. We chose as our class flower the "White La France Rose" and our motto "Non palma sine labore." We had several parties, and Mr. Gerber supplied plenty of fun at all of them.

As Juniors we now have twenty who have "survived as the fittest." At the beginning of the year we chose Harold Pletcher, President; Maurice Hartman, Vice-president; Pearl Hahn, Secretary; Mary Longenecker, Treasurer; and Mr. Sipe, Sponsor.

On Friday and Saturday nights, January 21 and 22, 1927, we put on a play "Yimmie Yonson's Yob," which proved that some of the members of the class have dramatic abilities.

We have had several parties and had plenty of other good times together as a class and hope that next year our twenty will still survive and more come to join our ranks.

THE AFRICAN FALLS

Claire Harris and Lorraine Vance, were girls just out of college. Claire was a writer and Lorraine a painter, as both were chums in school they thought it wise to remain chums in their life's work, so they decided to go to Africa. Claire was to write and Lorraine to paint pictures. But to make the voyage was the girls greatest problem, for neither was accustomed to travel. But Claire's cousin, Bob, volunteered to go with them. Bob had done a great deal of travelling, and could show Claire all the places of interest to write about, and Lorraine, beautiful scenes and landscapes to paint.

About the first of July, they set sail for Africa, taking a round about way, so they could get a bit of rest before going to work.

After a month's sailing they reached the land of jungles. Their first stopping place was Egypt. Here Claire found plenty to write about, but Lorraine found very little of importance, so their stay here was short.

Their next stop was a small town in the jungles. Here they were obliged to share their rooming place with some French people. The cottage stood on an old battle field. There they were treated very kindly. One evening on the back porch of an adjoining yard a native man played, "Swanee River." When Bob and the girls heard this they grew homesick, but this was soon overcome, because this very spot Bob had picked out as an ideal place for a wonderful story, and a beautiful river, with a falls for Lorraine to paint. So each day the girls spent most of their time at work. The rest of their time was taken in studying the customs and manners of the natives. There were always plenty of sights to gladden the eye. One moment it was the curling surf, the next moment it was the trees and flowers of every description.

At last Claire's book was finished, but Lorraine's picture wasn't completed. But everyone gave more credit to Lorraine than they did to Claire. This made Claire jealous, so she plotted with Bob to get Lorraine out of the way, and to do this was an easy task. It would take weeks and weeks for Lorraine to finish her picture, so they planned on the last day of these settings. When Lorraine was to finish her picture, Bob would steal upon her, and push her down the gorge.

At last the day came, and Bob stole upon her and pushed her down the gorge and she was dashed to pieces on the rocks below.

When evening came and Lorraine failed to come back, a search was made. When they found her picture and her chair empty, they concluded she had fallen accidentally down the gorge, just as Claire and Bob wished them to think. Then Claire took the picture and went back to America, displaying the wonderful scene, entitled, "The African Falls," as her own. To this day none but Bob and Claire know about the real artist and her fate.

HARD TIME PARTY

On the evening of September 24, 1926 about fifteen members of the Junior Class were entertained at the home of Harley Stump. To the surprise of us all Harley took us to the barn where we played some peppy games. Mr. Sipe acted the part of a magician and displayed new features.

Soon the boys brought in some watermelons and muskmellons which were soon made away with. Everyone had a good time and wish Harley would entertain us again.

—Mary Longenecker, '28.

SLEDDING PARTY

One moonlight night in February 1927, when the ground was covered with snow about half the members of the Junior Class enjoyed a sled ride which Myron Weldy gave them. After an hour of riding they stopped at an old school building and built a bonfire where they roasted weiners and apples. Although some had frozen feet and hands everyone enjoyed themselves.

—Mary Longenecker, '28

THEATRE PARTY

Ten members of the Junior Class with Sponsor Mr. Sipe attended the play "The Scarlet Letter" by Hawthorne, at the Oliver Theatre, South Bend, Indiana. Everyone enjoyed the picture.

BOOSTERS

Boost your town, boost your friend,
Boost the school that you attend.
Boost the street on which you're dwelling
Boost the team and keep on yelling,
Boost the people round about you
They can't get along without you,
But success will quickly find them
If they find that you're behind them;
Boost for every forward movement,
Boost for every new improvement,
Boost the man for whom you labor,
Boost the stranger and the neighbor.
Cease to be a chronic knocker.
Cease to be a progress blocker.
If you'd make your own school better
Boost it to the final letter.

SOPHOMORE CLASS HISTORY

One fine day in September, 1925, a group of young people found their way through the front door of the school building to sit in the Freshman row. When the seats were full they found they had taken 43 seats.

We were not long in following the upperclassmen in calling a class meeting. Miss Searer was elected sponsor; Thomas Pletcher, President; Calvin Mishler, vice-president; Juanita Christner, secretary; and Katherine Lehman, treasurer.

Crimson and Gold were chosen as our colors and you may find our beautiful pennant on the wall of the gymnasium. The American Beauty rose is our flower.

Of course, we had the misfortune all the classes have in losing some members.

It was bright and sunny on the first day of school, 1926, when about 32 Freshmen came back to become Sophomores. Not long after two thought they had enough larnin' and stopped.

We were not so long in organizing this year and are very fortunate now in having Mr. Gerber as our sponsor. The officers are: Katherine Lehman, president; Claude Robinson, vice-president; Grace Bowers, secretary; and Lowell Sloat, treasurer.

The class presented Miss Searer with a table to use in the English room.

We hope all will be back next year. —Katherine Lehman, '29

HIS SECOND CHANCE

Five hundred,—one thousand,—three thousand dollars for the head of Sarafan.

Old Hamlin dropped to the door-step, the paper slipping from his hand. He appeared aged—withered—beaten. Yearningly he looked toward the west. The moon crept up and the stars shone brightly as he lay motionless—dreaming.

In just such a twilight as this he had loved Elaine and when the moon was high she had given him the promise that made his heart full of happiness and joy.

But along came Pierre, the rough, dashing soldier, who had found his way by much gallantry into Elaine's heart.

Hamlin, although he began to have a feeling of jealousy for his rival, at first said nothing.

Then the night came when he had taken his farewell of her.

"You love Pierre?" he asked tenderly, as he held her small hand in his own.

"Yes"—came the answer, softly.

The next morning he had come to the priest with only the words, "There will be no wedding." Next morning came the news that Pierre and Hamlin's sweetheart had gone.

But she was not gone from him. She was always coming back—back to him who loved her. Sometimes he trembled at her footsteps; and in the moonlight he again held her to his heart only to break from his pleasant dream finding himself alone. He had heard rumors of her but never anything from her. He heard of a life of sorrows, of a brutal husband and then of her widowhood. Hamlin had gone about his work trying to forget, but the harder he tried the more he remembered.

Returning one evening from his work, Hamlin saw a bundle of rags on his door-step, motionless, except for a whimpering cry coming from it. He stared and then paled. It was she—come back to him at last. He took her in and gave her all the comfort and aid he could, but when the moon was high—just the time she had come into his life—she left him, never to return again except in dreams.

He had tried to do fairly by the child—Her child—, and when the trustees of the orphanage offered to take the boy, Hamlin stubbornly refused.

Hamlin's whole life now was wrapped up in the boy. He worked early and late for him; and when other men talked with pride of their sons, he looked at the tousled head with a far-away look in his eyes.

Hamlin had told the lad of the wonderful cities, the fine schools and the learning and advantages they offered; had showed him the little silver hoard with which he was to be educated. Every day he drove the lad five miles to a city school, trying to give him more advantages. When the boy gained honors Hamlin sat at home triumphant.

The lad entered the University and began to lead a rather wild and turbulent life. Hamlin could see the spirit of the boy's father cropping out in the son. The villagers had some gossip about his wild deeds. He sent home time and again for the money which Old Hamlin had worked for and saved. For months at a time he would be absent from school on a wild, law-less break, Hamlin worrying about him all the while.

But he finally settled down and Hamlin thought he was a Senior, when he appeared at home one day—mysterious and silent. No amount of coaxing, pleading, or threatening could persuade the boy to go back.

At last the crushing truth came out. They quarreled. The boy disappeared. Hamlin, crushed in spirit, muttered, "His father's blood—his father's blood." And he saw how his indulging the boy and never crossing his way had helped to make him what he was. He continued to yearn for the west—for the west where his boy had gone—

Hamlin was awakened from his dreaming. Some one was running up the garden path toward him. He looked. His boy! The boy fell upon him with a sob.

"Father forgive me—I've come home to you."

Before Hamlin had a chance to speak, the lad turned, wild-eyed, to the west. "There—, there!" "They're coming for me!"

"For you?"

"I am Sarafan."

"Who knows that Hamlin's son is Sarafan?"

"Only you—," softly.

"No one else shall ever know. Wait for me," Hamlin added, as he dashed out to meet the pursuers.

A little later he could have been seen kneeling on the garden path, his face turned to the stars. He could see her eyes shining through the stars and could hear Her whispering through the tree-tops, "Have you done your best for the boy?"

He arose; and it was with the light of a new resolution shining on his face that he went in to meet and forgive Her boy—and his own.

SOPHOMORE PARTY

Miss Jaunita Christner entertained twenty-one friends at a Halloween masquerade party Wednesday evening, November 28, 1926, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Christner of near South West. The evening was spent with games. The ones which were dressed the best were Claude Robinson, Cleo Weaver, Mary Enders, Pauline Brenne-man, Samuel Yoder, Roland Benedict, Paul Leinbach, and Russel Neterer. Refreshments were served at the last.

—Juanita Christner, '29.

SOPHOMORE CLASS PARTY

The first Sophomore class party was held September 17, 1926, in the school gymnasium. About 30 members and the sponsor, Mr. Gerber were present. A basket ball game followed by games and contests was very much enjoyed by those present. Ice cream, cake, and water-mellons were served.

—Mary Enders, '29.

SOPHOMORE PARTY

About eighteen Sophomores again enjoyed a party, January, 1927, at the school house.

The unrolling of the cats tail was a source of much amusement. Many "went to the moon," "received two degrees of Paradise." Refreshments were served.

A STUDENTS PASTIME

To My Everlasting Sweetheart:

I just didn't have time to write till now when I just took time. I felt funny this morning when you walked right past me in the gym and never seen me. It looked as if you didn't want to but I guess I was mistaken the way you said when I talked with you 2 1-2 minutes ago.

What are you going to tell me? Please tell me at noon. What is that that you were going to tell me yesterday when school took up that the girls made up about me? Did Merl call up there last night? He called me and said he is just dying to see Florence. I was wishing I hadn't called up the other day afterwards for I was afraid that your father might not like it, dear.

But I wondered so much how you were that I couldn't help calling but you said he didn't care so I am glad I called. Only I am sorry I made you get up, dear. It's too bad it had to happen on that because the basketball picture. I have twelve pictures in my camera and if you want to I'll take your picture with your suit on. Are you going to play tonight? I hope so for I don't think I will dress and then I can watch you play once, honey sweet.

Now, my dear, I must close for the bell is going to ring.

From your blue eyed baby boy,

You know who.

Answer when you have time

Remember I love you as ever

Don't forget I want to talk with you at noon

Say, by the way, I sure am glad that you love me because,—well you know.

FRESHMAN CLASS HISTORY

On Monday, September fifth, nineteen hundred twenty-six, fifty-seven Freshmen entered Wakarusa High, to spend the coming four years in hard work until they could receive their degree. It didn't take them very long to get settled and learn the rules and regulations of the High School. The first week of school we called a class meeting. We elected Miss Brevier as our sponsor. The following officers were then chosen: President, Charles Myers; Vice-president, Cecil Weaver; Secretary, Russell Hunsberger; and Treasurer, Robert Lehman. Blue and White were then chosen as our class colors. Later on, we became well represented in athletics by having members on the baseball and basketball teams. After a few weeks had passed two more persons entered our class in search of knowledge. Thus making the Freshmen Class a total of fifty-nine pupils. Hazel Hahn, '30.

GOING FOR A RAMBLE

The Freshman students were standing in a group near the school talking about having a party or something to have some fun.

"Let's have a party," said Willene Rust. "We could get a load of hay and a team of horses and drive out to our house for lunch and then back."

"Would your mother mind?" asked Gertrude.

"She wouldn't care, now I think it would be fun. There is just enough snow, and the moon and stars will be out to-night. What do you say, Eda?"

"I think it would be nice," answered Eda.

"How many are going? I'll telephone my brother to come after us with the horses and load of hay."

Twenty were going. They all parted in high spirits. That evening they met at Dan's home, where the sleigh was, and started out. They were scarcely more than started when Bertha said, "Let's sing something. Jingle Bells would be a nice one for to-night."

They made a great deal of noise as everyone sang as loudly as they could. They sang about six songs, always having a little argument in between as to what song to sing next. They made an aim to sing louder as they went past the farm houses, always succeeding in getting dogs to bark at them if the people owned dogs. After going four miles they stopped at Rust's to have their lunch and play a few tricks.

"William did you ever get hypnotized?" asked Willene. "You never did? Well, do you want to be?"

"Sure!" he said.

"All right." She whispered something to Eda then went on talking to William. "Come here and stand with your side up against the wall, put your shoulder and foot right up against it. Now I'll hypnotize your foot and you won't be able to lift it without falling." She stooped and made all sorts of funny motions over his foot then stood up and told him to lift it.

He tried and said, "I'd like to see you do it."

But she paid no attention and said, "Now I want you to write 'I will' in capital letters on this paper. Stand on your left foot and swing your right foot in a circle in the opposite direction to what the hands on a clock run." She now made motions over his right hand, then said, "Keep your right foot swinging in a circle in the same direction and write 'I will' in capital letters." He tried. Now to make an excuse for not accomplishing it, he said it was the position he was in.

Just then Eda came in from the kitchen with two plates. She handed one to William saying, "Look me straight in the eye, do what I do when I do it, and remember, don't look away from my eyes." He promised. "Rub your hand on the top of your plate, now down your right cheek, on the top of your plate again and down your left cheek, on the top of your plate again and across your forehead, on the top of your plate again and rub your chin. Now rub your hand on the bottom of your plate and down your right cheek, on the bottom of your plate again and down your left cheek, on the bottom of your plate the third time and rub your chin, on the bottom—".

But she didn't get any farther. A roar of laughter went up and William looked at his hand. It was coal black; what did his face look like? Gertrude held a mirror up in front of him. He laughed then too, for he was not at all white.

When the laugh was over and William was all washed up again they had their lunch. They got Mr. Rust to tell them stories while they were eating. William said he never laughed so much in all his life. That evening when they were going home it was a happy but tired group that sat in the hayrack on the hay singing songs. Gene Benedict, '30.

FRESHMAN PARTY

The Freshmen held their first party at the school house on October 1st. Not all members of the class were present but those who were there reported a good time. Ice cream and cookies were served. Ruth Bowers, '30.

GLEE CLUB PARTY

The Misses Kathryn and Ruth Bowers entertained fourteen members of the Girls' Glee Club and their instructor, Miss Brevier at their home Tuesday evening, January 18th. A taffy-pull was enjoyed by all.

LITERARY PROGRAMS

The literary programs played quite a large part in the High School this year. The primary object of the programs was to broaden the interests and activities of the student. There is a variety of talent in the student body and these are cultivated by the programs which are both interesting and educational. The programs include essays, debates, book reviews, readings, jokes and musical numbers.

ORCHESTRA PARTY

Tuesday, April 5, merry laughter was heard issuing from the yard of Raymond Yoder, where a huge bonfire had been built. The famous Wakarusa orchestra, with its director, Miss Brevier, was having a weinie roast. After the weinies and marshmallows were devoured, games were played out of doors and in. Later in the evening those present were entertained by a spirit which had been invited by the host.

The outside guests present were: Evelyn Brevier, Howard Robinson, Robert Lehman, Verle Hostettler, Helen Yoder, Richard Hartman.

Interest in the musical endeavors of the Wakarusa school has been manifested very noticeably in the enthusiasm with which patrons and students have co-operated to make the orchestra a promising organization. It has already proved itself a decided asset in bettering school programs. Great things eventually grow out of small beginnings.

THE ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

All those interested in athletics met the first part of the year, for the purpose of electing officers and to make plans for the coming year. The officers elected were Maurice Doering, Pres., Claude Robinson, Vice-President, and Virginia Green, Secretary and Treasurer.

The association has proved very successful, because all those who were interested filled their parts.

School athletics, when carried on in the proper manner, help to develop the boy or girl into a well-balanced individual. He is developed both physically and mentally. His mind becomes alert and becomes more sound in making judgments or decisions. A better co-ordination of mind and body is developed through taking part in the various games. Character and sportsmanship are also built.

An athlete can not become angry in a game and fill his place, because anger dulls the mind. Therefore he is taught to control his temper. If an athlete can take the knocks of a game and take them like a man, he can also take the knocks in the game of life like a gentleman. Co-operation is also taught. The individuals must all work for the same end in order to make a successful game.

Mr. Rohrer tried to teach the athletes to hold up the following ideals: Go into every game to win, but win it fairly; treat the visiting team as your guests and friends; always show good sportsmanship; and always co-operate with every one in the game. The boys who use tobacco and alcohol are not allowed to take part in athletics, if it is known. The citizens of the community can aid in keeping the boys clean, if they co-operate with the coach and school authorities in stamping out smoking.

Honor sweaters were awarded to the graduating seniors for playing in more than half of the games in any one sport for one year or more. For each year on the team in any one sport, a stripe is placed on the sleeve of the sweater.

The following seniors received honor sweaters: Maurice Doering, three stripes; Jess Wise, three stripes; Carl Weldy, three stripes; Clark Farber, one stripe; Virginia Green, two stripes; and Beulah Werner, two stripes.

Letters are given the under graduates for each year on any team.

THE BASKET BALL TEAM

The boys that were interested in basket ball came out faithfully for the purpose of getting trim for the on coming games. Mr. Rohrer doing his best, working on odds with only two players that were regular first team players last year, produced a fair team. The losing of men, because of breaking training rules and because of low grades, caused the first team line up to change for almost every game. This handicapped the team very much. But there were from fifteen to twenty freshmen and sophomores who were out to practice this year learning the fundamentals of basket ball, so we are hoping that they, with their experience, will better our record next year. With our new gymnasium the grade boys and girls are learning to play basket ball. When they get into high school, they can be developed into players sooner. This will mean better teams in the future.

SOME CLOSE GAMES

Wakarusa 24—Middlebury 21

This was Waka's first win. The game was hard fought all the way through. Our defense was too strong for Middlebury. Robinson seemed to be hot that night. He dribbled through for one basket right after another.

Millersburg came to Wakarusa over confident of winning the game without much effort, but when they got in the game, we gave them a scare. The team proved their ability in basketball. The boys worked a wonderful defense and offense all through the game, and the game ended in our favor 21-20.

The Wakarusa team went to Middlebury not knowing whether they would get there or not, due to a snow storm just previous. But we got there and they sure played determined to win the game. Wise and Weldy worked fine on guard and Robinson and Doering on the offense. The game ended with a victory for W. H. S. 28-26.

Everyone was out for the Madison game. The game started off fine in our favor at first but soon the score went the other way. When the gun cracked the score was 23-28 in Madison's favor. We appreciate the fine spirit the Madison team has. We also were good losers.

The Jamestown game was the surprise of the season. Wakarusas' basketball fans were nearly all discouraged and stayed home thinking the team would experience defeat. The game started and was rather exciting and Jamestown seemed to be making more baskets than we were. When the half ended the score was 8-16 in their favor. Wakarusa didn't lose her courage and when they were behind they fought harder than ever.

Wise and Weldy should be mentioned for the good guarding and the forwards and center worked together the whole game. The score ended 18-37 with another victory for Wakarusa.

SECTIONAL TOURNAMENT

For the first time in the history of the school, Wakarusa won its first game in a sectional or county tournament.

In the second game on Friday evening of the tourney Wakarusa met Middlebury and defeated them in a consistently played game to the count of 14-18. Middlebury was in possession of the consolation brick which they were allowed to keep until next season.

The evening of the Middlebury game allowed Wakarusa to go to the semi-finals. The team put up a very good fight and held Nappanee to a fair score of 18-30. This was the first time Waka held Nappanee to a 12 point lead for a few years. Doering was high point man for the game with 13 points. He also received honorable mention.

The following players represented W. H. S. in the tournament: Wise (capt.) Doering, Weldy, Hunsberger, Hartman, Pletcher, Farver, Harrington.

CLASS TOURNAMENT

Games between the classes of the High School were played in March. The first game was between the Juniors and Seniors, which was a victory for the Seniors, the final score being 24-0. The second game between the Freshman and Eighth grade ended with a final score in favor of the Freshman 17-10. The third game between Sophomores and Seventh grade was won by the Sophomores 41-4. The next game of the Freshmen and Seniors ended in favor of the Seniors, 18-16. The finals were played by the Seniors and Sophomores and won by the Seniors, score 13-12.

BOYS' BASKET BALL SECOND TEAM

Back Row—Robert Lehman, Cecil Weaver, Mr. Rohrer, coach, Alvin Hunsperger, Clark Farber, Mr. Sipe, coach.

SECOND TEAM COUNTY TOURNAMENT

The Wakarusa High School was again the host of the second team County tournament. The tournament was held Saturday, January 29. Eight of the nine county teams were present.

The second team tournament is a good thing, because it gives the boys plenty of basket ball experience for the next years team. The second team games keep the boys cut to practice, because they have an end to work for.

FIRST ROUND

The first game was played by Millersburg and Jamestown. The fighting Jamestown boys won by a score of 11-5.

In the second game of the forenoon, New Paris nosed out Bristol in a hard fought game to the score of 17-13.

Wakarusa met Nappanee in the third game. Our boys fought a great battle in the first half. At half time the score was 8-4 in favor of the Naps, but our boys could not keep up the fast pace and the game ended 20-8 in favor of Nappanee.

In the last game of the first round the Elkhart giants walked away to an easy victory over the Goshen seconds.

SEMI-FINALS

New Paris took an easy victory from the Jamestown boys. The score was 26-5.

The Elkhart giants again had little trouble in winning their game from Nappanee. The score was 40-13.

FINALS

Elkhart and New Paris had the honor of playing in the finals. Elkhart won by a large score. The tournament was a success.

A rainy fall and a lack of practice, caused the baseball team to get a poor start, but by the end of the season they were playing good baseball. There will be three games played this spring.

TRACK

With the use of a good quarter mile cinder track, and a large athletic field, we are developing a fairly good track team. The boys are proud of their track and they are making good use of the track.

We are having three track meets on our field this year—a triangular meet with Bremen and Nappanee, a duel meet with Madison township and the county field meet. Mishler, Robinson, Doering, Benedict, Weldy and Wise are showing up good. In the next few years track will be more highly developed.

TENNIS

The tennis courts are being constructed this spring. They will be ready for play during the summer.

With Mr. Sipe coaching the tennis, there should be a good team put into the field.

GIRLS' BASKET BALL TEAM

GIRLS BASKET BALL TEAM

This is the second year Wakarusa has had a girls basket ball team. Last year we were not much of a success but this year we did a little better, as we won five games of the ten played.

Wakarusa can boast of a team of all Freshies, composed of Hazel Hahn, Ethel Kauffman, Laura Yoder, Treva Enders, Dorothy Hoover and Irma Shank. I am sure that these six girls will be the winning team for Wakarusa in a very short time. Besides these six girls there are also girls from all the other classes.

Mary Longenecker—Forward—Mary has held her place for two years and will be back to shine for W. H. S. again next year.

Florence Shank—Running Center—Florence is the smallest on the team but she has proved size is not necessary.

Pearl Hahn—Jump Center—Pearl has proved her ability this year and will also be back next year.

Beulah Werner—guard—Beulah has played guard for two years and we need not doubt her ability when we think of the game with Bremen, the score being 13-1 in our favor.

Green—Forward—Virginia has played forward for two years too and has proved very successful, we are hoping she will continue wherever she may happen to go in the future.

Amanda has been one of the most faithful on the team always out to practice and playing wherever she was told.

Pauline is in the second year and next year we expect to see her a regular player on the first team.

The team only loses three players this year and we certainly expect a bright and prosperous future for the remaining basket ball team.

INDEPENDENT BASKET BALL TEAM

Forwards—Hunsberger, Fredericks, Green, Farber. Center—Sipe and Hartman.
Guards—Rohrer, Gerber, Wagner, Holdeman and Nunemaker.

INDEPENDENT BASKET BALL

The Wakarusa Independent Basket Ball Team enjoyed one of its most successful seasons this year. The team turned in nineteen victories in twenty-five starts during the year. The team received some good coaching this year and also a new style of play. The team was one of the strongest contenders for the championship of Northern Indiana. Top heavy scores were usually turned in by the team. Two benefit games were given by the team for the H. S. Athletic Association. The team sponsored the Sectional Independent tournament. The team was a favorite to win the title but lost to the South Bend Tog Shop in the second round.

JOKES

Miss Searer (in Sophomore English class): "Use the word 'smother' in a sentence."

Claude Robinson: "Sorry, I'll see you s'mother time."

When the teacher asked the class how many wished to go to Heaven, all hands raised but one. This lad stuck his hands in his pockets and sneeringly surveyed the rest of the class.

"My goodness!" cried the teacher, "Don't you want to go to Heaven, Billy?"

"No," said Billy, "not if that gang's going."

Glenwood Harrington has been very naughty for a Sophomore and after causing much disturbance, tried to spring a joke on the teacher.

Glenwood: "Teacher, suppose you were a burglar and wanted to steal something out of my house and escape detection which would you take, the stove or bath-tub?"

Teacher: "Oh, I'd take the bath-tub for you wouldn't miss that for three or four weeks."

Kathryn Bowers shortly after Christmas went to spend the night with Edna Miller. Kathryn is accustomed to talk in her sleep. About one o'clock she clasped Edna in her arms and called out, "Oh Levi, did you bring me another present?"

She: "Give me a sentence with the word, 'justice.'"

He: "I'd justice soon kiss you as not."

Crossing Watchman: "Yas sah judge, I was out by the track swinging my red lantern long before the train came."

Judge: "Your veracity has been praised by numerous witnesses so we'll accept your word!"

Crossing Watchman (to a crony after leaving the court room): "I was sure skeered he's ask me one question—'was the lantern lit?'"

Myron Weldy thinks that the Electoral College is the college to study Electricity.

Pearl H.: "Why just look at the electricity in my hair."

Abner B.: "No wonder, it's from a dry cell."

Harley Stump (on Monday morning): "You look like 2 cents today."

Virginia Green: "Well, I don't see any dollar signs on you either."

JOKES

Dorothy Hoover: "Well dearie, how am I looking?"

Irma Shank: "For men as usual."

Jones: "Sorry, old man, that my hen got loose and scratched up your garden."

Smith: "That's all right; my dog ate your hen."

Jones: "Fine! I just ran over your dog and killed him."

John Doering: "I never kissed a girl until I met your mother. Will you be able to say the same?"

Maurice Doering: "Not with as straight a face as you can, father."

Miss Werntz was talking to the class about gravity.

"Now," she said, "it is the law of gravity that keeps us on the earth."

"But," inquired Abner Brown, "how did we stick on before the law passed?"

Mother: "No, William for the third time I tell you that you cannot have another piece of cake."

William: "Aw, I don't see where dad gets the idea that you are always changing your mind."

If you don't like our jokes
If their dryness makes you groan;
Why don't you come around
With some good ones of your own?

Maurice Doering: "Who were the four horsemen?"

Clark Farber: "Paul Revere, Jess James, Bill Hart and Barney Google."

In the old days if anybody missed a stage coach he was contented to wait two or three days for the next. Now he lets out a squawk if he misses one section of a revolving door.

Miss Werntz in Senior Civics class. "Clark, what is the meeting of officers called?"

Clark Farber: "Carcas."

"Her niece is rather good looking, eh?"

"Don't say 'knees is,' say 'knees' are."

J. A. FREED & SON

THE FIRST OLIVE TOWNSHIP SCHOOL

was a log cabin erected some 86 years ago in Section 11, four miles north of the present fine structure wherein are taught all the children of the township. The pioneer school, built, at a rally of the settlers, of rough unhewn logs drawn from the primeval forest, was furnished with slab seats, split-log floor, greased-paper window lights, and a huge fireplace that would easily receive a log ten feet long. On bitter cold days, the children would be seated in a compact semi-circle in front of the fireplace—their faces scorching, their backs shivering; their feet, numbed by the long walk to school, tingling if not aching.

During the first decade of the township's school system only long structures were built, but about 1838 brick and frame buildings began to displace the cruder seats of elementary learning. It is a far cry from the depressing conditions under which the boys and girls of that earlier period wrested from quaint text books the rudiments of an education, to the excellent standardized facilities provided for the pupils of today.

So it is with Banking Facilities. The splendid, representative institution that THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF ELKHART has become is a structure that had its foundation laid in the early '40s, it's founders in 1863 securing the charter that made it an early unit in the newly organized National Banking System.

We invite you to call on "the Old Reliable" whenever you are in Elkhart.

At this season of the year, the same question pops up again. "What Shall I give for Graduation? What Can I give for Graduation? What Ought I give for Graduation?"

The best answer to this question is to be found at this Cheerful, Courteous, Up-to-date Jewelry Store.

LOVE

Virgil Weldy who has chosen to fall in love with a senior girl has had some very interesting debates in his mind as to what love is. The other day while in one of his moods he wrote the above word on the back of a map he drew to see how it looked. Then he handed the map in to the teacher ignorant of what he had done. Alas! on exhibit his teacher turned the back of the map out by mistake.

Miss Plasterer wanted to raise some chickens so she sent to a poultry firm to see how long the hens must set to hatch the eggs.

The reply was:—

Three weeks for chickens and four weeks for ducks. In a month's time she sent back the following reply:—

I waited three weeks and the chickens did not come. I did not want ducks so I took the eggs up town and sold them.

A fragment of a Lincoln Essay

Lincoln was shot while sitting in his box at Ford's Theater by John Wilkes Booth. The bullet entered Lincoln's brain and died the following morning at 7 o'clock.

—We wonder where the bullet was buried.

When you get the worst of it, make the best of it.
